

6 - Evaluation of your TA sessions

- As it is my first time as instructor, I wanted the students to evaluate how I structured the TA sessions, how my presentations of the topics are and how helpful they found the TA-sessions.
- I sent out a google form and brought it up during the 4th week of teaching. Most of the students that replied did it during this TA-session. Out of the 16 who showed up for TA I got 10 answers.
- When asked to rate TA as a whole from 1-5 I got an average of 4.2. I also asked about the blackboard presentation, how they would rate the help they received and how good the assignment feedback was, where I got around the same.
- I also asked for other notes and feedback, where the students noted that the way I solve the exercises in front of the class is good, but I should be more confident. For the class where I sent out evaluations, I did not do livecoding, so most feedback was that they liked livecoding and when I debug in front of the class, I will continue to do this.
